Celebrating Exceptional Educators: The Free Press Journal's Teachers' Day Special

In our special Teachers' Day edition, The Free Press Journal proudly features a selection of remarkable educators who have made a significant impact in their respective schools. These teachers stand out not just for their dedication, but for their unique contributions to the lives of their students. While their principals nominated them, we also realised that they had many hidden talents.

Jisha Prabash at Pawar Public School, Bhandup, is an innovator in the classroom. By incorporating technology and creative teaching methods, she transforms complex topics into easily understandable lessons. Ms. Prabash's use of songs and rhymes to teach concepts like the animal and plant cells has made learning both fun and effective. Her approach to involving every student in the learning process and encouraging participation sets her apart.
